

Consulting brief

Our 5-stage consulting approach

We support companies through 5 stages:

1. We prepare business change, develop business cases, or investigate localized issues via business and strategic analysis. We use analytic techniques to help startups as well.
2. We work with your project office as your extended arm or depending on your needs we manage project stages or implement the project solution end-to-end.
3. Once new solutions are integrated into the usual business, we leverage existing resources or re-engineer and standardize operational processes, while also improve management tools and systems to develop operations.
4. We also look at business change from an organizational perspective, – either working with your project/ strategy department, or standalone – working with your team we identify value-based benefits based on which we navigate the timeline by prioritizing requirements, so that the quickest implementation can be achieved, while making sure that working habits also change.
5. In your regular business, we can add that extra help you need to manage your client services, suppliers, or business administrative activities. We are strong in finance, but our management tools can be utilized across operational areas.

What we do

We support business as usual activities or consult across the business change lifecycle.

STRATEGY SUPPORT	PROJECT SUPPORT	BUSINESS SUPPORT
Business planning, modeling	Business case development	Finance management
Agile Change management	Business analysis (process, system, data)	Procurement & supply
Strategic business analysis	Project management end-to-end	Corporate/ business administration
	Project stage support

In the light of COVID-19 operational disruptions, what we can help with

We leverage skills and methods to create best solutions

We leverage our subject matter expertise with various project and change management methods and techniques. We apply strong business analysis and visualization practices in our work, and support concepts with viability and quality checks.

The exact techniques adopted during the consulting work can vary significantly from project to project, assignment to assignment. They depend on the scope of the work, available resources and timeline, and project stage considerations.

We are passionate about business change and invest in ourselves to develop our knowledge in this field.
